

A photograph of a man in a bright yellow jacket and light blue pants standing in a stone doorway at night. He is leaning against the left side of the doorway, with his right hand raised to touch the top of the door frame. The doorway is framed by three ornate, carved stone columns. To the right of the doorway is a large, dark green wooden door with a metal handle. The scene is illuminated by a warm, yellow light, likely from a camera flash or a nearby lamp. The background is dark, suggesting it is nighttime.
